

"When amidst the Five Objects of Desires,
I vow that living beings
Will pull out the arrow of lust,
And attain ultimate peace and calm.

"At festive occasions or musical gatherings,
I vow that living beings
Will see such pleasures are empty
And take Dharma as their enjoyment.

"When I am in a palace or a house,
I vow that living beings
Will enter the sagely state,
Forever free of defiled craving.

"When I wear a necklace of precious gems,
I vow that living beings
Will renounce all vain ornaments,
And find what is true and real.

"When I go upstairs,
I vow that living beings,
Will ascend the stairs of Right Dharma,
And clearly see through everything.

"When I have something to give,
I vow that living beings
Will be able to let go of everything,
Their hearts free of clinging love.